

Palmetto Conservation Foundation's True to the Brew 10K

By Lydia Weber, local resident

On March 23rd, six Chapin Women in Service volunteers helped the runners at the sold-out Annual True to the Brew 10K Run. Members directed parking, handed out water, and cheered on the runners. There were 200-300 racers. The race began in Pomaria and ended at the Broad River trestle bridge.

True to the Brew is held by the Palmetto Conservation Foundation, established in 1989. This organization aims to complete 500 miles of hiking and biking paths stretching from the mountains to the sea. Currently, 380 trail miles are completed in 14 counties. The trails provide free public access to healthy outdoor recreation while enjoying the exquisite nature of South Carolina.
